OREGON IN A BOTTLE

Underwood Rosé shows the awesome potential of using an assortment of grapes, mix of vineyards, and the extremes of Oregon's growing regions to create a quaffable pink wine. Inspired by all those secret swimming holes, backyard BBQ's, and lazy porch moments found in the midst of summer, it will become your new favorite lounging staple.

The 2014 vintage started off warm, bud break was early, and vineyards went through flowering under ideal conditions. Warm, dry conditions persisted throughout the season and resulted in the warmest summer on record. The unusually warm weather continued into the harvest window as we began to pick under optimal conditions. This was a rare year as both quality and quantity of fruit was very high. The resulting wines are showy with ripe fruit flavors and great concentration.

TASTING NOTES: STRAWBERRY, WATERMELON, PEACH
